

Figure A

Harkess

Spot of light projected onto the ground to allow a golfer to detect movement of the golfer's head during a golf swing.

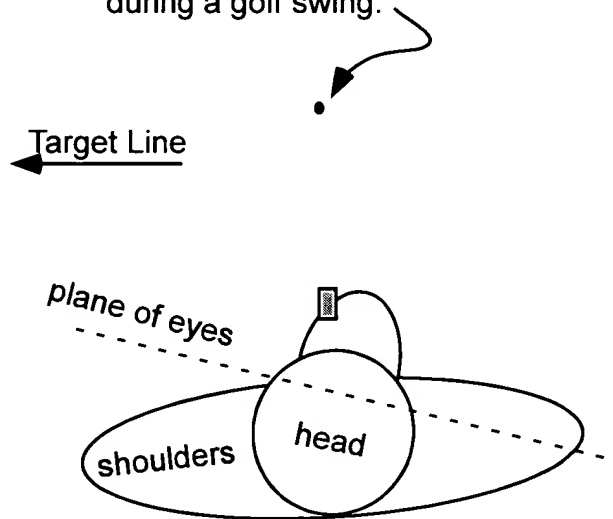

Figure B

Present Invention

Generally linear beam of light generated on a surface (for example, the ground in front of a golfer) to indicate alignment of a plane including the golfer's eyes.

